Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2778277A2] The housing (1) has a cross-element (3) which rests on chamfers (8,9) at the side walls (4,5) for setting the total width of the housing for the construction of the frameless housing. The cross-element is connected under positive fit with the chamfers on the side walls for forming the angle stability between the walls. The cross-element has a profiling at the free ends for positive-fit formation with the chamfer areas of the side walls.
