Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2783598A1] The device (1) has connecting elements (2, 3) attached at a front-sided front side (22) of an inner drawer (20), and at a front diaphragm (23) of an outer drawer (21), respectively. One of the elements includes detent projections, which are elastically arranged relative to each other in a preset position. Profile contours are formed at a profile element (9) e.g. elongate strip-like part, of one of the connecting elements such that the projections engage behind the profile element at the profile contours for transferring tensile forces in a coupled condition, and form a detent pair.
