Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2013079991A1] A construction comprises a number of elements (15,22), a number of first and second bars (1,6) for mounting the elements and moulding strips (17) placed in the construction between the elements (15,22) and the bars (1,6) for sealing and stabilizing the construction. The first and second bars (1,6) are equipped with first and second groups of hooks adapted to engage each other when building the construction. The construction has a simple and inexpensive structure and can easy and quickly be formed to many different configurations.
