Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2786692A1] A device for fastening the skirting-board to appliances that have a back provided with a seat engageable (8a), the device comprising fastening means (22, 30), to secure a skirting-board (8) in a position substantially parallel to the front of a lower part (6) of a household appliance (1). The fastening means (22, 30) comprise at least one fastening member (30) with a modular first connection portion (31) axially extended and including a succession of coupling modules (34). Each coupling module (34) has a base part (35) and a projecting front element (36), designed for coupling with the engageable seat (8a) of the back of a skirting-board (8). The coupling modules (34) of the succession are reciprocally joined in a separable way to enable to adapt the length of the first connection part (31) of the fastening member (30).
