Abstract (en)

The continuous band is formed by a continuous plastic sheet, wherein rectangular plastic plates are established in correspondence with each one of the sectors thereof, in longitudinal alignment, corresponding to the later production of the bags; said rectangular plates are positioned such that once the corresponding heat-seals have been formed, these rectangular plates are positioned on opposite sides of the bag formed which, once filled with the product to be packed, adopts the form of a box or basket. The continuous band will have the corresponding die-cut windows closed by fragments of net heat-sealed to the continuous layer of plastic.
