Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2829467A1] A vessel for transporting compressed gas, comprising cargo holds with tanks for storing gas during transportation arranged in said cargo holds equipped with pipelines, signaling sensors, a shutoff fitting and a connecting fitting, and compressors, wherein the hull of the vessel is divided into cells with vertical guides, at least one bulkhead in said cells is impermeable to water and gas, and unified containers with the tanks for compressed gas arranged horizontally therein are mounted one on top of the other in the guides, said containers being connected to a vessel system for compressed gas transfer, wherein the hull of the vessel is divided into the cells in such a way that, in the zone of at least one bulkhead delimiting the cell, a distance of from 0.8 to 2 metres is ensured, and collectors for distributing the compressed gas, the pipelines with the shutoff valves, the compressor and accident monitoring and control equipment are arranged in this space.
