Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2013186126A1] The invention relates to a refrigeration appliance (100) with a water-carrying conduit system which has a connector (114) for connecting to a domestic water supply system. According to the invention, a monitoring device (400) is designed to detect water leaks in the water-carrying conduit system of the refrigeration appliance (400). The invention also relates to such a monitoring device (400) for installation into a refrigeration appliance (100) and a monitoring device housing (400) for such a monitoring device (402). (Fig. 1)
