Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2014014883A1] A multimedia recruitment system for providing job information and/or job seeker's information in a visual or video format is described. The multimedia recruitment system may deliver job and career opportunity information in a high quality visual or video representation. The multimedia recruitment system may also provide job seeker or job candidate's information in a visual or video representation. The visual or video representation may be provided through TV channels or networks, on-line communication networks, wireless networks, etc.
