Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2013030600A2] A support for a person comprising a liner for a helmet, a padded neck support, and a connecting member connecting the liner and the padded neck support. The support is especially suitable for very young children and so the liner is normally sized to fit heads with a diameter of less than 50cm. The invention provides a flexible support for helmet, which are typically unsafe to use for children (e.g. when riding pillion on a bicycle) because they are too large and provide no neck support.
