Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2014175759A1] The invention relates to a virtual card game. With the aid of a programme, changeable game scenarios are created on the screen of an electronic device by the movement of cards, and player actions are activated. The invention achieves the technical result of creating novel game functions which broaden the possibilities of the method and make it possible to play poker with the aid of electronic means and with an increased probability of a win for a player having a weak combination of hole cards.
