Abstract (en)

[origin: US2014112650A1] A cartridge heater apparatus includes a tube; a heating cartridge adapted to be inserted into the tube for heating fluid passing through a passage space between the heating cartridge and the tube, the heating cartridge being secured at a first end thereof in a cantilever manner; and means for supporting the heating cartridge in the tube at a location distant from the first end, without blocking the fluid passing through the passage space between the heating cartridge and the tube.
