Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2014161752A1] The invention relates to a tool attachment (300) for a hand-held power tool, which hand-held power tool has a housing having a fastening interface. The tool attachment comprises an attachment housing (305), on which a locking unit (350) for locking the tool attachment (300) to the fastening interface of the hand-held power tool and a tool receptacle (340) for receiving an insertion tool are arranged. An impact unit (320) is arranged in the attachment housing (305), which impact unit is designed to apply impacts performed in the axial direction of the tool receptacle (340) to the insertion tool during impact operation of the tool attachment (300).
