Abstract (en)
A fastening arrangement in a horizontal tank container construction for fastening a tank to a frame structure (4) meant for said tank, the tank comprising a cylinder portion (1) with ends (2) attached thereto and the tank being supported to the frame structure (4) at both its ends. Between the tank and the frame structure (4) there is provided a load-bearing intermediate piece (3) that protrudes from an end (2) of the tank towards the frame structure (4), the intermediate piece (3) being fastened either to the frame structure (4) or to the end (2) by a resilient jointing means transmitting the forces bearing the tank and permitting longitudinal play of the tank in relation to the frame structure (4).
