Abstract (en)
[origin: EP3023046A1] A boiler for a steam cleaning device comprises a thermal heat store; an electrical heating element for heating the thermal heat store; a water cooling circuit comprising a water input for receiving water from a water tank and a steam output. The electrical heating element and the water cooling circuit are embedded in the thermal heat store and an outer surface of the electrical heating element is closer to an outer surface of the thermal heat store than an outer surface of the water cooling circuit.
