Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2015034442A1] The object of the invention is a partitioned projectile designed especially for hand-held firearms such as a cartridge of a gun or a pistol, wherein the bullet is made from a combination of solid and soft plastics or of a similar material and intended to temporarily disable a target or to cause minor trauma. The partitioned projectile consists of a bottom part 2 of the projectile and an upper part 3 of the projectile. The bottom part 2 of the projectile is made from a harder polyethylene (PE) or polypropylene (PP) plastic, whereas the upper part 3 of the projectile is made from a softer polyurethane plastic (TPU).
