[origin: WO2015055970A1] The invention relates to a system for exchanging information between different users, signed up for the system, and different authorities, associated with geographical areas such as territory groups. Said system includes: - a common data storage platform (P); - terminals of the different users (Ui), each terminal including a means for determining the current geographic location of the terminal, a "signaling" interface enabling the user to signal an Event geolocated by an authority, and a means for sending, to the platform storing them, the current geolocation of the terminal and the signaled Event; and - terminals of the different authorities (Ci), each terminal including a means for sending, to the platform storing same, Alerts sent out by the authority in question. The system also includes: - a means for sending an Event, stored in the platform, to the authority associated with the geographical area where the Event was geolocated and time-stamped; and - a means for sending an Alert, stored in the platform, to a user, registered with the system and the terminal of which is geolocated in an area for broadcasting the Alert defined by the authority in question. The invention also relates to the corresponding information exchange method.
