Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2015097104A1] The invention relates to a method for recycling at least one plastic product, the method comprising depolymerizing at least one polymer of said plastic product to monomers by exposing the plastic product to a depolymerase under conditions favoring binding of said depolymerase to said plastic product. The method of the invention may be used for degrading, simultaneously or sequentially at least two different polymers of the plastic product, and/or for recycling at least two plastic products.
