Abstract (en)

[origin: US2016375278A1] A strap includes at least a first and second area, the first and second areas being consecutive along a longitudinal axis of the strap. The latter is woven by means of at least a first group of warp threads, a second group and a third group different from the first and second groups of warp threads. The strap is woven by means of at least the first, second and third groups of warp threads and at least one weft thread, the strap being devoid of the second group in the second area, and of the third group in the first area, the first group passing through the first and second areas. The first group and second group of warp threads are distributed over the width of the strap in the first area.
