Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2015153373A1] Digital content delivery are disclosed. An example method includes receiving personal information associated a user and receiving a first request from the user to receive first content digitally. The first content is to be generated by a first content creator. The method includes, based on the personal information and the first request received, registering the user with a content distributor to enable the user to receive the first content digitally, the content distributor being different than the first content creator and conveying the first request to the first content creator for the user to receive first content digitally.
