Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2016001196A1] The invention relates to a method for producing a composite wall comprising a porous web (16) extending in the thickness of said composite wall, said method comprising a step of depositing a conductive ink (15) on said porous web (16) according to a pre-determined mesh that can provide said composite wall with specific properties of electromagnetic transparency, electromagnetic filtering and/or defrosting without damaging the mechanical strength thereof.
