Abstract (en)
[origin: EP3199710A1] A cover for a manhole having an oblong, mainly rectangular form. The cover comprises at least two circular manhole closures and at least one central section (3), a frame (40) being provided to support at least two manhole closures (2). The frame (40) is mainly rectangular and formed with half circular ends. The central section (3) is provided to be placed between the manhole closures, said central section (3) comprising two planar end faces and two identical opposite end side faces (30) in form of circular sections, which are complementary to and abuts the circumference of the manhole closures. The cover provides the possibility of using normal circular closures.
