Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2016102581A1] A wrapped bundle package of a group of containers is disclosed, in particular an array of drink bottles, comprising a multiple-layer wrapping of plastic film made of stretching plastic material applied by stretching around said containers, wherein said layers of plastic film are in the form of at least one pair of counter-rotating coils arranged with an oblique angle ranging between 60° and 80°, with respect to a same axis of the bundle, and in that in said wrapping two transversal cuts are provided, on opposite sides of a row of containers located in a centre of gravity area of the package, arranged so as to release elastic tension in the film which allow a curling of plastic film edges at least towards a central creasing band (F) acting as gripping handle.
