Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2017009541A1] The invention relates to a method for producing a foundation (10) in the ground (S), wherein: a reinforcing cage is introduced into a drill hole filled with concrete such that the framework of the reinforcing cage is embedded in the concrete; the concrete is allowed to harden so as to form a concrete structure comprising a body and an upper portion; the upper portion (34) of the body (32) is removed from the concrete structure (30) so as to uncover the top end (20a) of the coupling element (20); and at least one connecting reinforcement (40) is fastened to the coupling element.
