Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2018095981A1] The invention relates to a receptacle (70) for holding liquid, pasty, or pulverous substances or compositions, in particular paints, said receptacle having two tub-like regions (71), each of which is formed by a bottom element and three side walls (72). A handle-type element (73) is arranged between the two tub-like regions (71). Said handle-type element is integrally joined to the bottom elements and to the side walls (72). The handle-type element (73) forms a further side wall of each of the two tub-like regions (71) such that the tub-like regions are leak-proof and tight with respect to the compositions. The invention further relates to a container, which comprises said receptacle (70), wherein the receptacle (70) is inserted into an external packaging (61). The invention further relates to methods for producing corresponding receptacles and containers.
