Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2017013355A1] The cosmetic article comprises: a case (47, 48) and a applicator that is fastened to the case but movable relative to said case between a retracted position and an extended position, in which the applicator extends outward from the case further than in the retracted position. The applicator comprises a body and protuberances (3), at least some of which are arranged so as to be movable relative to the body between a retracted position and an extended position, in which the protuberances extend outward from the body further than in the retracted position.
