Abstract (en)
[origin: EP3330445A1] The invention relates to a floor outlet (140) according to an embodiment, which floor outlet comprises an outlet part (142) and a sewer connection (143). The outlet part comprises an inlet opening (144), through which water to be removed enters the floor outlet, and a sewer connection is formed in connection with the outlet part for removing drain water entering it from the floor outlet. Additionally, the floor outlet comprises a heat recovery connection (354) and a guiding part (256). The heat recovery connection is formed in connection with the outlet part for leading water entering it to the heat recovery device (410) and the guiding part is meant for guiding water through the heat recovery connection out of the floor outlet.
