Abstract (en)
[origin: EP3348365A1] A magazine-type hand-held shaver includes a shaver head, a magazine body, a shaver head connection cover and an elastic element. The magazine body is a hollow structure and forms a receiving chamber with an opening located at an upper end of the magazine body, and the shaver head is received in the receiving chamber. The shaver head connection cover includes a lower end detachably installed on the magazine body and covered on the opening, and an upper end provided with a connection part that is selectively assembled with the shaver head. The elastic element is received in the receiving chamber and urges the shaver head to slide towards the opening. The shaver is convenient to carry.
