Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2017054024A1] The invention relates to a holding device having a support rail (3) which extends along a longitudinal axis (L) and is in the form of a lighting component or in the form of a holding part for a light, wherein the support rail (3) is to be installed in an installation opening (1) formed in a suspended ceiling (2), wherein the support rail (3) delimits a light outlet opening (4) which faces in a direction (R) perpendicular to the longitudinal axis (L), a holding element (5) for holding the support rail (3) in the installation opening (1), wherein an engagement element (6) is of such a configuration that, by means of a movement of the engagement element (6), the holding element (5) is shifted with respect to the support rail (3), starting from a mounting position, by a rotation and a subsequent translation movement in the direction (R) to a holding position for holding the support rail (3) in the installation opening (1).
