Abstract (en)

A head (100) is described for a bed including a main portion (101) and at least a side portion (102) of the head (100). The side portion (102) is adjacent to the main portion to define a side extension of said main portion (101). The head also includes a hinge area (103) interposed between the main portion (101) of the head and the side portion (102) of the head, to allow rotation of the side portion (102) with respect to the main portion (101).
