[origin: WO2018042364A1] The invention relates to a heel for footwear. According to the invention, the upper part of the heel (2) pointing toward the foot has an at least partially peripheral deflector edge (4), which is designed such that a heel cap (3) is protected from damage, in that the deflector edge (4) protrudes radially beyond the heel cap (3) far enough that contact between the heel cap (3) and the environment is prevented. The invention further relates to footwear comprising a heel according to the invention.
