Abstract (en)
A hair styling device (S) comprising at least two treatment compartments (C1, C2, ...) for subjecting hair (H) to optical radiation. Preferably, in at least one treatment compartment (C1, C2, ...), the hair (H) is radiated from at least three different sides. The hair styling device (S) may comprise at least five treatment compartments, preferably at least ten treatment compartments (C1, C2, ...), and more preferably at least twenty-five treatment compartments (C1, C2, ...), thereby forming an optical comb. Preferably, the treatment compartments (C1, C2, ...) are dimensioned to only allow hair (H) that is not more than ten layers thick, and preferably not more than five layers thick. Advantageously, the treatment compartments (C1, C2, ...) are made from a material (M) that can convey light. Preferably, the material (M) is shaped in such a way that that light is directed towards the hair (H).
