Abstract (en)

[origin: US2019246769A1] A mechanism for a case for applying a cosmetic product having a main axis includes a sleeve arranged around a head of a guide to which the sleeve is secured. The head of the guide includes snap-fitting attachment means configured to cooperate with complementary means of the sleeve in order to axially immobilize the sleeve with respect to the guide, and rotational blocking means intended to cooperate with the complementary means of the sleeve to rotationally block the sleeve with respect to the guide.
