Abstract (en)
Embodiments relate to apparatuses, methods and computer programs for providing information related to a location of a vehicle and for providing location information related to one or more waiting vehicles. The information related to the location indicates, that the vehicle is a personal vehicle waiting for a passenger to get into or to get out of the vehicle. The method for providing information related to a location of a vehicle comprises determining (110) an activation status of a warning function of the vehicle, wherein the warning function comprises an active state and an inactive state. The warning function being set to an active state indicates that the vehicle is waiting for a passenger to get into or to get out of the vehicle. The method further comprises determining (120) the location of the vehicle. The method further comprises transmitting (130) the information related to the location of the vehicle if the warning function is active.
