Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2018156185A1] A garment (100) with integrated holder and method of use, wherein the garment provides for one or more straps (108,109), pouches, or integrated elements that enable a user to carry the garment, as well as one or more methods of folding, gathering, rolling, stowing, donning, or packing the garment (100). In some embodiments, one or more straps (108,109) and fastening means (110,111) may be used in releasable attachment with one or more drawstrings (105,106), creating loops that can be used as carrying elements. In other embodiments, the present invention may be rolled into an integrated carrying pouch that provides for one or more drawstrings that, when tightened, create loops that can be used as carrying elements. The present invention allows a user to store and carry a garment when the garment is not in use.
