Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2018197285A1] The invention relates to a quick snap fastener (10) for a lace-up shoe comprising at least one tongue (100) which is provided with a number of eyelets. The invention is characterized by a base element (12) with securing means for securing the base element (12) to or in one of the eyelets, a clamping element (26) which is connected to the base element (12) in a pivotal manner about a pivot axis (28) such that the clamping element (26) can be folded between a closed position, in which the clamping element (26) is folded onto the base element (12) and an open position, and locking means for holding the clamping element (26) in the closed position, wherein the clamping element (26) has at least one eyelet (34) at a distance from the pivot axis (28).
