Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2018219599A1] A strip lamp comprises a plurality of lamp elements, which are arranged along a curve; a transparent emission element for light of the lamp elements; and a connecting element, which is configured to fix the emission element at a predetermined distance from the curve. In this case, the connecting element has a respective web between adjacent lamp elements, which web extends in the direction of the emission element.
