Abstract (en)
[origin: US2020255983A1] A flat clothing for a revolving flat of a carding machine includes a foundation and a plurality of clothing tips formed from U-shaped wire hooks penetrating through the foundation and situated in adjacent rows with a row spacing between successive rows. A row offset in the direction of the length of the foundation is defined between the clothing tips in the adjacent rows such that the clothing tips are not situated one behind the other in successive rows. At least two successive zones are defined, wherein each zone has at least three rows of hooks and the row offset of the first zone differs from the row offset of the second zone. A row spacing between each row in the second zone and a following adjacent row, viewed in the fiber running direction, is different from the row spacing between the row and a preceding adjacent row.
