Abstract (en)

[origin: EP3711632A1] The invention relates to a part for upholstering a lift-up bedstead formed by a rectangular body having two flaps on the sides which allow same to be attached between the outer beams of the lift-up bedstead. Thus, the rectangular body has a plurality of square through-holes along the part, which act as cavities for giving firmness and stiffness to the body, and therefore facilitating the firmness of the upholstery of the outer beams of the lift-up bedstead.
