Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2019101875A1] The invention relates to a motor vehicle bodywork part comprising a rear diffuser (10) having at least one primary panel (20) and at least one secondary panel (30), each of said panels (20, 30) being movable between a deployed position and a retracted position. When the bodywork part is attached to a motor vehicle, the secondary panel (30) is completely non-visible from the outside in a retracted position and obstructs an opening (50) between the bodywork part and the primary panel (20) in the deployed position, said secondary panel (30) being mechanically connected to an upper part (42) of the bodywork part.
