Abstract (en)

[origin: EP3738478A1] The device of the invention is comprised of a main housing equipped with slots for the cosmetics to be sampled, which can be moved by means of guides towards a sampling area, and arranging in this area a roll of pre-cut or stacked intertwined sampling labels of a glossy material, such as plastic, paper or another similar material that can be suffused one at a time with the cosmetics to be sampled, so that said cosmetics cannot be extracted at any time from the housing they are linked to, making it possible for potentially numerous clients to try on the cosmetics without incurring any risk of contagion between them.
