Abstract (en)

[origin: EP3296487A1] An elevated flooring surface assembly including surface tiles (108) disposed on respective support plates (300), the corners of which in turn rest on support pedestals (201) disposed upon a fixed surface with a predetermined spacing therebetween to provide for increased degrees of support of the surface tiles above the fixed surface. The support plate includes raised portions supporting the surface tiles and defining a gap along a peripheral edge into which fasteners for securing the support plate to the pedestal can be located.
