Abstract (en)

[origin: CN112095320A] The invention relates to an ironing device comprising an ironing plate (5) on which laundry is placed for treatment by using an ironing and/or ironing tool. The plate (5) is carried by a support, and the support comprises at least one articulation device (4) allowing the plate to be brought and held in different positions, such as a vertical position and a horizontal position of the plate (5). The support is characterized in that the support comprises clamping means (9) allowing a force to be exerted on the articulation means (4) in order to limit the articulation means (4) in at least one of the positions, and eliminating all movements of the articulation device (4) associated with the functional play of the articulation device (4).
