Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2019172760A1] The invention relates to a midsole for a shoe, in particular a sports shoe. The midsole comprises a body arranged to be placed between an outsole and an insole of the shoe, wherein the body comprises a forefoot part that is arranged for positioning at a forefoot side of the shoe and a hind foot part that is arranged for positioning at a hind foot side of the shoe. In the midsole the forefoot part and hind foot part are mutually adjustable. The body is provided with unlockable fixation means which are arranged to releasably fix, in use, the forefoot part in relation to the hind foot part.
