Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2020027671A1] The subject of the invention is an information plate, in particular a number plate used as a vehicle number plate and as an information plate, to be placed in locations where durable information about a given object is required, using a passive RFID (Radio Frequency Identification) tag. It is characterized by a passive RFID tag (2) being placed in an opening (4) in a metal sheet (1), whereas the protective foil (3) at the location of the identification strip has a demetallised layer with the same size as the external dimensions of the opening (4) for the placement of the identification strip (2).
