Abstract (en)

Provided are a detergent box and a washing machine including the detergent box. The detergent box includes an additive box provided with an addition cavity, and further includes a siphon structure and a limit plate. The siphon structure is rotatably disposed in the addition cavity and is configured to divide the addition cavity into two chambers, and the two chambers are communicated through the siphon structure when liquid detergent is delivered. The limit plate is configured to support the siphon structure to enable the two chambers to be completely communicated when solid detergent is delivered.
