Abstract (en)

[origin: EP3910653A1] The invention relates to a casing (1) having an interior volume (2) adapted to at least partially receive an electric terminal (4), particularly a bushing (40). Furthermore, the casing (1) comprises an access panel (6) which, in a closed position (8), covers an access opening (10) for accessing the interior volume (2) from outside the casing (1), wherein the access panel (6) is configured to be movable into an open position (12), in which the access opening is open. In order to allow a movement of the access panel (6) from a secure distance, the access panel (6) comprises at least one tool attachment portion (14) for attaching a tool (16).
