Abstract (en)

[origin: EP3912498A1] A garment (100) including a protection device (10) for protection of a user is described. The garment comprises at least one garment portion (102) having a visible surface (103), and a visible cavity or empty area (104) of said visible surface (103). The personal protection device (10) includes an inflatable element (12) which is configured to assume at least one inflated active configuration and one deflated rest configuration, wherein at least the inflatable element (12) is removably associated with the visible cavity or empty area of said visible surface and acts as a completion of the visible cavity or empty area of said garment portion in the active configuration and in the deflated rest configuration. A method for customizing and a kit for customization of the aforementioned garment is also described.
