Abstract (en)
[origin: EP3692836A1] Disclose is a smoking substitute apparatus comprising a first passage for receipt of an aerosol flow, a second passage arranged in parallel with the first passage and comprising an additive delivery portion for delivering an additive to an airflow in the second passage, a mouthpiece comprising an outlet in fluid communication with the first and second passages, and a valve for controlling aerosol flow through the first passage. The valve is movable between a first position in which an airflow drawn through the outlet is received substantially exclusively from first passage, and a second position in which an airflow drawn through the outlet is received from a combination of the first and second passages.
