Abstract (en)

A glazing assembly set comprising at least one insulating glazing to be mounted in a framework and a hook-and-loop fastening sheet complex provided on the framework of the insulated glazing for enabling mounting of the insulated glazing on a building frame in an opening of a building structure is disclosed. The hook-and-loop fastening sheet complex of the invention comprises a first and second sheet of fabric, each having an inner face and an outer face. The inner faces of the first and second sheet of fabric include a plurality of loops and hooks, respectively that comprise the first and second attachment means of the first and second sheet of fabric, respectively. The hook-and-loop fastening sheet complex is separable, with a mating hook-and-loop fastening between the inner faces of respectively the first sheet of fabric and the second sheet of fabric, adapted to provide a mechanical seal, with advantageously some acoustic and intumescent properties, between the building frame and the framework in which the insulating glazing is to be mounted when complementary loops and hooks of the inner faces of the hook-and-loop fastening sheet complex are engaged.
