Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2022049284A1] Described are a wall frame and a method for installing the wall frame, the wall frame having one or more wall connection sections for receiving one or more wall panels, more particularly one or more plaster boards, and a door leaf receiving section for receiving at least one door leaf without a door frame. The advantage of the wall frame is that the cost-, coordination- and time-intensive steps of measuring the wall opening; producing a door frame based on the allowance; incorporating the door frame; and optionally reworking the region between wall and door frame can be omitted, more particularly for installation walls.
